Engineer Had Slacked Up, but Started Again, Thinking the Electric Car Would Not Move.

PATERSON, N. J., June 18 .- The Deck ertown express, on the New York, Sus-

There is a curve in the road just before Puterson is reached, and there the engineers shut off steam until they can see it the road is clear.

This was done by Conklin this mornins, and he saw the electric car stop just beiers it reached the railroad track.

Thinking everything was all right Conklin threw open the throttle and the engine gave a leap forward.

Just then the electric car started forward again, and before the engineer could lift a hand to stop the train the ponderous engine struck the front end of the car and smashed it into kinding

oner After a Lively Fight.

Wolfe Rosenblatt and Michael Toplinsky, both of 45 Watkins street, Brooklyn, were arraigned in the Gates Ave-nue Police Court this morning, one charged with grand larceny and the charged with grand larceny and the other with rescuing a prisoner. Rosenblatt is accused by A. Rosenblatd Co., of 207 Thatford avenue, machine dealers, of fraudulently retaining some sewing machines, which he had bought on credit, but refused to pay for or sur render.

Officer James Webb arrested Rosenblatt, but when he attempted to leave the house with his prisoner he was attacked by a furious crowd, who rescued the prisoner. Webb seized upon the leader of the mob, Michael Toplinsky, and held him till some officers of the feventeenth Precinct came to his assistance. Rosenblatt was found in his house and rearrested.

Rosenblatt was remanded for trial leaves.

Rosenblatt was remanded for trial, in default of $500 ball, and Toplinsky in default of $1,500.

TO TRY DYNAMITER KELLEY.

Judge Fitzgerald This Week.

In Part II., General Sessions, to-day, Lawyer Kinsley made a motion before Judge Fitzgerald to have the indictment against John Kelley, of 583 Grand street, who was found in a vacant lot at One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street and Hanhaitan avenue with several dynamite bombs in his possession, dismissed life bombs in his possession, dismissed in the law of the large transport of the insanity expert's letter Judge Martine took the papers.

Policeman Devine told Coroner Dobbs that when he found Moran on the bed apparently dying, Moran managed to say:

"I'm shot in the back. Barney Fitz-simmons shot me."

Young Fitzsimmons denied that he adfired the shot, and on Curtis's statement that he was the one who shot Moran, Fitzsimmons was exonerated by Coroner Dobbs.

The Coroner expressed much sympathy for Curtis to-day. The young man, who is engaged to Annie Moran, bears the best possible reputation among his acquintances.

"Step down, officer," said the Justice, "and make your complaint. There is enough evidence before me to bold the saloon-keeper for trial." The policeman looked surprised.

"Policeman Stringer, of the Union Market station, had two prisoners in Essex Court this morning charged with violating the Excise law. They were both discharged. For the past year, Stringer has arrested one or more saloon-keepers every Sunday, but they have always been discharged. The policeman had secured so little evidence against them that it was wondered why he made the arrests. These are the arrests that tire some of the Justices.

Mr. Platt confined himself almost exclusively to office practice and seldom appeared in court. He was a man of profound legal knowledge, and was considered an authority on probate, statute and real-estate law. He was not a believer in litigation on general principles, and whenever consulted made it a point to attempt bringing the parties at issue to a reconciliation. His advice was frequently sought by great corporations.

Mr. Platt was a bachelor. His only relative in this city is a sister, Mrs. Justin A. Bliss, who resides at 301 Madison avenue. He had a Summer house in South Haven, L. I.

He was a director in a number of asylums, including the Institute for the Blind, and his name figures among the list of directors of the Corn Exchange Bank and Union Trust Company.

He was a member of the Union, Metropolitan, Union League, Downtown and several out of town clubs.

James W. Girard moved before Justice Ingraham, of the Supreme Court, today that a minute be entered out of respect to the memory of Lawyer Platt. He devilever a culogium on his character, which was supplemented by appropriate remarks of the Court.
